Cuadra-Soft Edge

Patricia Urquiola, 2026

A subtle yet significant variation on the language of the Cuadra–Soft sofa. The profile of the sofa, traditionally the site of seams and structural transitions, is reinterpreted through fur fabric trim rendered tone-on-tone with the primary upholstery.
The architectural character of the piece remains intact, while its perimeter acquires an unexpected quality: as in haute couture, where finishing is never merely functional but an integral part of how a silhouette is constructed.

The result is a heightened perception of softness: the cushioning appears to gain depth, the profile seems to yield gently, as though the trim absorbs the severity of the edge and returns it as visual comfort before tactile.
